

ABSTRACT

An insurance rating method. Steps taken to perform a method embodiment include identifying a location and identifying a geographic risk zone. The location is compared to the geographic risk zone to determine if the location is at least partially within the risk zone. An insurance rating is then calculated according to the comparison.